

Unite against fascist Tommy Robinson's hate march

- Don't let the far right hijack May's crisis
- #NoRacismNoFascism

Unite against fascist Tommy Robinson's hate march

- Don't let the far right hijack May's crisis
- #NoRacismNoFascism

Sunday
9 December,
12 noon

Central
London

Details tbc. Check our facebook page for updates.

Hosted by Stand Up
To Racism and Unite
Against Fascism

The fascist Tommy Robinson (real name Stephen Yaxley-Lennon), a former BNP member and a convicted fraudster, is attempting to capitalise on the government's Brexit crisis by organising a rally to promote his far right agenda.

He is trying to win broader support for a new violent racist street movement.

Yaxley-Lennon's main target is the Muslim community. It's vital we learn the lesson from history that hate against one community always opens the door to attacks against others. The only way to defeat it is to stand together.

Yaxley-Lennon is backed by UKIP leader Gerard Batten, who has taken the party even further to the extreme right, and by a new and vicious global far right – including racist Dutch MP Geert Wilders and Trump's former chief strategist Steve Bannon, who described him as the "backbone of this country".

We cannot allow Yaxley-Lennon and his racist and fascist friends to hijack this crucial debate by spreading hatred and division. That is why we must mobilise against them.

It doesn't matter if you voted leave or remain, join us in opposing the racists and fascists.

Sunday
9 December,
12 noon

Central
London

Details tbc. Check our facebook page for updates.

Hosted by Stand Up
To Racism and Unite
Against Fascism

The fascist Tommy Robinson (real name Stephen Yaxley-Lennon), a former BNP member and a convicted fraudster, is attempting to capitalise on the government's Brexit crisis by organising a rally to promote his far right agenda.

He is trying to win broader support for a new violent racist street movement.

Yaxley-Lennon's main target is the Muslim community. It's vital we learn the lesson from history that hate against one community always opens the door to attacks against others. The only way to defeat it is to stand together.

Yaxley-Lennon is backed by UKIP leader Gerard Batten, who has taken the party even further to the extreme right, and by a new and vicious global far right – including racist Dutch MP Geert Wilders and Trump's former chief strategist Steve Bannon, who described him as the "backbone of this country".

We cannot allow Yaxley-Lennon and his racist and fascist friends to hijack this crucial debate by spreading hatred and division. That is why we must mobilise against them.

It doesn't matter if you voted leave or remain, join us in opposing the racists and fascists.

